Yesterday, Tuesday 16th of June, LH AVIATION signed for the sale of a civil surveillance UAV to the United Arab Emirates (UAE) police forces. The machine will be delivered end of July 2015. Equipped with an optronic ball, it is used to do surveillance missions in urban areas and sensitive sites, and can also interface itself with a decisional operational system tool.

In the frame of the development of its professional UAVs range, LH AVIATION and the company DIGINEXT have decided to put in place a strategic partnership.

DIGINEXT developed the innovative solution CRIMSON command center for the maintenance of security and crisis management.

The two companies decided to work together to offer their customers a unique, 100% French solution, consisting of a totally integrated interfaced UAV with a collaborative information system to help with the decision making at the different commanding levels of the organizations involved in operations of security maintaining and crisis management. Besides its operational use, the system allows for the training and mission preparation.
